

“WHEN NO ONE IS REMEMBERED”

This week, something quietly painful has happened in our parish. For every Mass from Tuesday through Sunday, the intention line remains empty. No names. No prayers offered. No one remembered at the altar.

In a community facing real financial hardship, these small offerings matter. But even more, the love behind them matters. If someone is on your heart — living or gone — this is a tender moment to place their name before the Lord. Sometimes the silence says more than words. This week, the silence is asking us to pray.
